

Words.Ink SOCIETY

Words.Ink, the Literacy Society of Dr. C.V. Raman University was envisioned as a forum for students to discuss and pursue their literary freely. The society is activity working towards its goal of generating interest in literature and language among students. The society compliments technical education by providing a platform that encourages discussion and activities for literature enthusiasts. The Society organizes various literary activities and events within the campus and also facilitates participation of the members in the events organized by other institutions. Connect to us at:
