3 Principles

Dr. C. V. Raman University aims to admit students with the academic potential and aptitude to succeed on its UG/PG/Research & other programs.

The University values diversity, and aims to improve access to higher education for students.

4 General

The University welcomes applications from the applicants/students who have the potential to succeed on a programme of study at the University. However, the University is an adult environment, and arrangements for the students to attend the University needs to be agreed between the University and the student's parent(s) or guardian(s) prior to an offer of a program and a place of study being made.

The University will make pre-application guidance available in its Admission office for potential applicants who would be at the commencement of their proposed programme of study. It will also provide information for the parent(s) / guardian(s) of such applicants about specific aspects of the University environment that they should be aware of the context of ensuring the protection of their child.

Applications from the students/applicants will be subject to normal screening and selection processes at the beginning or the pre-University entrance test or the test of the respective regulatory body whatever applicable. Only once the decision has been made that the applicant is eligible to receive an offer according to academic criteria, then will the applicant's admission process be taken into account to proceed for further admissions.

Before an offer is made, the admission office will be required to carry out a risk assessment to determine if there are any specific risks attached to admitting the student to the particular programme. In particular, the risk assessment must consider whether anyone working with the student would be carrying out regulated activity and require family-history and prior study. It may be necessary to involve other services such as Accommodation Services or HR in the risk assessment process.

An admissions officer in the admissions office will contact the applicant and his/her parent(s) or guardian(s) to discuss any issues raised by the risk assessment, and any conditions which will be attached to the program offered. Conditions will include clarification of parental responsibilities for the ward/student while he/she is attending the University.

The admissions office will then prepare a detailed care management plan for the student which will be signed off by the University and the student's parent(s) or guardian(s), and which will be reviewed by the student's personal tutor/mentor each semester to ensure it remains fit for purpose.
